EASE THEIR BURDEN OF CHRONIC DISEASE WITH REMOTE PATIENT MONITORING

According to the National Council on Aging, 80% of older adults live with a chronic disease and 68% have at least two. Conditions like diabetes, COPD, and hypertension can take a significant toll on seniors and make it difficult to perform everyday tasks. If not managed properly, these conditions may cause more serious complications, can reduce quality of life, and rob your loved ones of the independence they need.

Because managing chronic conditions requires dedicated attention and coordination between both patients and providers, Remote Patient Monitoring (RPM) is an easy way to give your parents comprehensive condition-specific care that is covered by their insurance.

CareHalo's RPM is centered around improving health outcomes. We provide easy to use RPM devices through which your loved one's existing primary care doctor can monitor vitals like pulse rate, blood pressure, and glucose readings.

- Easy to use Bluetooth devices.
- Devices automatically notify us if vitals are out of range.
- CareHalo coordinators follow up if your parent forgets to record their vitals.
- Doctors can access vitals to conduct digital telemed visits.
- Our team notifies primary physicians of all relevant changes.
- Allows for early intervention and reduced healthcare costs associated with emergencies.
