Dr. Kevin Hylton

Hi, my name's Dr. Kevin Hylton, and I've helped countless Ph.D. students break through the challenges with writing a dissertation to successfully defend their dissertations using a unique combination of academic expertise and my vast experience with coaching students.

It's normal to find yourself procrastinating, worrying, and at times stressing about a lack of support and your progress, but it's not necessary! For most students, writing a dissertation is their first time working on a long-form research project with little to no faculty support, completely alone and in some instances no other social support! This lack of academic and personal support causes stress to mount leading many Ph.D. candidates never completing their dissertation.

I am currently conducting virtual dissertation retreats to Ph.D. candidates who are either in the beginning stages of their proposal or in later stages of their dissertation

The goal of these retreats will be to provide dissertation candidates with guidance and the support they need towards completion of their dissertation. My dissertation retreats are designed to provide personalized guidance and support that will help students manage and navigate all aspects of the dissertation process and ultimately graduate.

What Our Clients Say

"When Kevin and I began working together I was stuck. My dissertation chair was of little to no help. I was submitting revisions on my proposal every couple of weeks only to get it back with minimal feedback that was ambiguous at best. I know that I would not have this degree if it were not for him. He was often the calm in the storm, a safe place for me to vent my frustrations, and to be vulnerable enough to hear the constructive feedback I needed without feeling belittled."

Dr. Gina

"I was relieved to have someone with knowledge and experience to help guide me through my dissertation process. Kevin has been able to guide me throughout my entire process, including helping me to use the proper types of articles for my Literature Review, guiding me through IRB submissions, and helping me to develop my topic and topic write-up for university approval. The process of working through these processes has been tampered with the knowledge that I had an expert that was within reach to help explain the process."

What Our Clients Say

"I was extremely frustrated and doubtful I could complete the dissertation process. Kevin is an excellent encourager and took the time to know me to find out what would motivate me to complete my work. I received edits from Kevin that I did not review because I wasn't for sure if I wanted to keep writing. Kevin called to check in. I shared how I was feeling about completing the process. Kevin explained how completing my work would give voice to my research subjects and others like them. His words came back to my mind throughout the remainder of process. When obstacles came my way I reflected on Kevin's words which made me press forward until my work was finished and I completed my final oral defense. I was able to complete my full dissertation and all University requirements in less than a year."

"Dr. Hylton is a supportive, energizing, and knowledgeable dissertation coach. Dr. Hylton and I worked together for a total of 13 months and during that time he provided guidance, tangible assignments, and constant feedback during every session. Before I started working with Dr. Hylton, I felt hopeless, lost, and considered quitting the process. Dr. Hylton restored my energy and passion to press forward and stay the course. Sometimes, I felt like I was Dr. Hylton's only client because he was always responsive and willing to work me into his schedule. Dr. Hylton exceeded my expectations of what I envisioned a dissertation coach and student relationship would encompass. If you are looking for a phenomenal dissertation coach- Dr. Hylton is amazing."
